Billions More In War Bill Is Up to Congress

terials ever undertaken by any nation." It asked immediate action.

"Billions upon billions of dollars and the output of more than half of our factories will be geared to the manufacture of munitions, tanks, guns and other implements and articles for war use," said the committee.

Strike At Disputes

Sharply and sternly, the committee struck out both at strikes in defense production and profiteering on war contracts.

Describing the munitions program as a race against time the committee said:

"Unquestionably, practices have crept in of a most reprehensible character, despite the care and diligence of those having overall responsibility for the expenditure of funds.

"It is worse than unfortunate," it said, "that even a small number of men whose services are vitally useful in the prosecution of ship-building are not at work."

Referring to "the welders' strike on the Pacific coast," which was terminated today, it declared:

"These disputes wear us out fighting with each other while the production of war materials languishes and the chief beneficiary is the axis enemy."

"It is not fair to the men who are fighting the battles of the country; it is not fair to the vast body of loyal workers who are giving their best efforts in industry to produce everything that is needed for the war effort."

Strain On Manpower

Even with the tremendous sums already authorized—"appalling" was the word used by the committee in describing them—the report said that additional appropriations would be forthcoming for further airplane expansion and for the pay of personnel.

The bill would bring the total of war appropriations voted since Pearl Harbor to $606 for every man, woman and child in the United States. It would provide arms for an army of 3,600,000, including an air force of 1,000,000, by the end of this year.

"There will be a strain on manpower," said Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson. His testimony before the House Appropriations committee along with that of War Production Chief Donald Nelson and Major General R. C. Moore, army deputy chief of staff, accompanied the bill.

As sent up to Capitol Hill by the Bureau of the Budget, the new bill called for:

A. $22,888,901,900 for the War Department, including $13,252,200,000 designated for ordnance and $3,011,512,000 to expedite production. The deficiency appropriations committee inserted a clause to prevent diversion of more than half of that amount to the allies in the form of lease-lend aid.

B. $3,852,000,000 for the Maritime Commission. Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, commission chairman, disclosed that the construction program contemplated 2,877 ships with a 30,834,421 total tonnage and a total expenditure of $6,704,464,056, including the funds in the pending bill. He said that the 1942 schedules called for 786 vessels.

C. $5,430,000,000 for lend-lease purposes, boosting the total appropriations for that form of aid to more than $17,000,000,000. Largest single item in the new allotment was listed as food—$1,300,000,000—and Secretary of Agriculture Wickard said the emphasis would be on "more concentrated products, such as meat, dairy products and dried eggs, and less on such products as cotton and corn."

After disclosing the army's 3,600,000 man objective for 1942, Moore told the committee:

"We cannot foresee at this time how many troops we will need to carry the war to a conclusion. It will actually take our whole, or all-out, productive capacity, as we see it, to carry the war to a conclusion."

Would Provide Bombers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—The army told Congress today that "plenty" of bombers would be sent to the aid of General Douglas MacArthur in the Philippines "if we could get them there."

"We would have had a lot of them there by this time if we could get them there," said Major General R. C. Moore, deputy chief of staff, in testimony made public by the House Appropriations committee.

For Biggest Tanker Fleet

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—A mighty shipbuilding program of two merchant ships a day this year and "the best and biggest tanker fleet in the world at the end of 1943" was announced today by the House Appropriations committee.

The committee made public testimony of Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission, in approving a defense deficiency bill containing an appropriation of $1,502,000,000 and contract authority for $2,350,000,000 to help the commission build up a fleet big enough to meet wartime commerce needs, and $734,420,000 to carry out its expanded lend-lease activities.

Believes Dash Of Nazi Ships Be Help To Allied Powers

ing his statement in Commons there were indications that the RAF had been seeking out the two German battleships at their German haven. Bombers attacked ports in northwest Germany last night, it was announced here, and a Nazi communique told of an RAF attack in Helgoland bight where the ships are believed to have tied up.

"Whatever smart of disappointment or annoyance may remain in our breasts that the final forfeit was not exacted" of the Germans in the battle, he said "there is no doubt that the naval position in the Atlantic, so far from being worsened, is definitely eased."

He explained that at Brest the battleships were on the flank of convoy routes.

"They could make a sortie at any time onto the Atlantic trade routes or into the Mediterranean."

The admiralty thus had been forced to keep a watch, and much of Britain's bombing effort had been diverted from Germany to Brest, he said.

"All the near misses will fall on German and not on French dwellings," henceforth as the result of the Germans' "being driven to leave an advantageous position."

Took Desperate Risk
Churchill said that during the more than 10 months the Scharnhorst and Gneisenau were at Brest they "were undoubtedly hit several times and repair work was made difficult."

Therefore the "Germans evidently came to the decision that they could not maintain them any longer at Brest."

Once having reached that decision, he added, the Germans had the choice of two hazardous operations, sailing completely around the British islands past Norway or through the channel.

In the Atlantic, he explained, they would have run the risk of being picked up by extensive air reconnaissance and brought to action by overwhelming forces as was the Bismarck.

The channel run, on the other hand, he said, would take less than 24 hours, could be made partly in darkness and during weather of the Germans' choice and would have the advantage of a powerful shore-based air umbrella.

"Our slow convoys have repeatedly traversed the Straits of Dover and are repeatedly bombarded by German guns on the French shore," he said.

As to the "extremely grave" event of the fall of Singapore, the prime minister promised a debate "when carefully considered statements may be made."

"It would ill become the dignity of the government and of the House, and would render poor service to the alliance of which we are a part, if we were dragged into recriminations at a time when our minds are oppressed with a sense of tragedy and with the sorrow of so lamentable a misfortune," he said.

The inquiry into the Scharnhorst-Gneisenau affair, he said, will be secret and its conclusions probably will not be announced. He announced that Justice Sir Alfred Townsend Bucknill, of the High Court of Justice, had begun an inquiry into the channel escape with the assistance of a naval and airforce officer. He asked that the investigation, started yesterday, be completed within one week.

Not Bothered In Tire Shortage

There is one Sedalia gentleman who is not going to be concerned about the tire shortage. He is "Tom" Buckley, of North Grand avenue, who during all the years that automobiles were so popular, preferred to drive his horse "Cotton" and to ride in their two seater surrey.

Mr. and Mrs. Buckley and their two daughters, Miss Sinella and Miss Catherine made many trips to Sedalia, to church, to shop and to visit friends. Always they drove their horse, which stood hitched by the hour, waiting for the family to get started back home.

Some months ago "Cotton" then almost thirty years old, died, and Mr. Buckley has never found just the horse he would like for family driving, but he hopes to find it some time soon. In the meantime the family is using taxi service. "It's cheaper than owning an automobile" said Mr. Buckley, who never had any desire to own his own car, although he has ridden hundreds of miles with friends.

Tire Certificates By Ration Board

Tire certificates were issued by the rationing board today to John W. Almquist, 1200 South Ohio avenue, four tires and four tubes; J. R. Cole, Sedalia, one tire and one tube; Ed Wagoner, route 2, Hughesville, two tires and two tubes; W. C. Colvin, Sixteenth and Marshall, one tire and one tube, obsolete.

Roy Raines, 909 South Sneed avenue, two tires and two tubes, for a truck, transportation of beer and stock.

Wants Stronger Coast Defense

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Chairman Walsh (D-Mass.) of the senate naval committee told the senate today that the coasts of the United States were "almost defenseless" and that as a result the day might come when it would be necessary to bring the navy home to protect them.

Walsh made the assertion during debate on the $100,000,000 civilian defense appropriation after Senator Johnson (R-Calif.) had said that there was "no adequate defense of the Pacific coast."

Walsh said a newspaper article recently had presented a "dramatic expose of the complete lack of defense of the city of Boston and the state of Massachusetts."

"I regret to say," he added, "that their flight is no different than that of any coastal city."

Lack of defense, he said, prevailed on the east coast and in the gulf, as well as on the west coast.

"I fear," he told his colleagues, "that the day may come when we will have to bring back our navy from the four corners of the earth simply to protect our shores."

White House officials preferred not to say whether it might be assumed that some realignment of American and United Nations strategy was required as a result of the fall of Singapore, the attack on the West Indies islands of Aruba and Curacao, and the escape of German battleships from Brest, France, to the Helgoland bight.

The president also had a luncheon engagement with the British ambassador, Lord Halifax.

Lenten Season Starts Wednesday

Today is Shrove Tuesday, the day before Ash Wednesday, which marks the beginning of Lent. It is so called because it was the day on which "shrift" or confession was made in preparation for the great fast during the Lenten season.

It is celebrated in many countries as the last day of the carnival, with feasting and merrymaking, of which, in England, the eating of pancakes alone survives as a social custom, the day having been called at one time "Pancake Tuesday."

Lent, which begins Wednesday, continues until Easter Sunday, April 5.

"Your voice is a vital part of the effect you make on another person — in the home, in business in school rooms and the many places where one speaks," Mrs. Jane Brewer Forgy of Warrensburg, said in an address on "Let's Improve Our Voices" given at the Sorosis meeting Monday afternoon at the Heard Memorial club house.

Emphasizing the need for improved voices not just in public speaking, but in social speaking, Mrs. Forgy said it behooves all, regardless of status or age to ask "What effect do I create with my voice?"

In recent years courses in speech and voice correction have taken an important place in curricula. The education department of Missouri has become recognized for work and material in this field.

The most common voice faults of women, Mrs. Forgy said, are mumbling, high shrill voice, weak voice, the "dead pan" voice of monotonous pitch, unpleasantly loud, "too-too" precise and the gushing type.

She suggested that members of the family or close friends should be consulted about one's voice so that studied effort can be made for improvement.

Women enjoy wearing their most becoming hats, most pleasing smiles and in general making their most attractive appearances, and their voices should be at their best, too, Mrs. Forgy advised.

The speaker closed her program with the reading of several short poems.

The meeting, presided over by Miss Nina Harris, was opened with the singing of "America" and "Columbia, Gem of the Ocean," led by Mrs. H. C. Johnson, music chairman, followed by the salute to the flag. Arrangements were made concerning the Sorosis student loan fund.

The speaker of the afternoon was introduced by Mrs. Herbert Seifert, chairman of the Art and Drama department. Mrs. Forgy before her recent marriage was head of the speech department at Central Missouri State Teachers college.

Lee Charles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee C. Redmond, 422 Wilkerson, celebrated his third birthday Monday, by entertaining some of his little friends at his home.

After an afternoon of merriment the young guests were invited into the dining room, where the red and white merry-go-round birthday cake was cut and served with animal brick ice cream.

Favors were animal candy cups and red balloons.

The little honoree received many nice gifts from his friends. Invited guests were: Mrs. E. E. Shirley and children, Carolee and Donnie, Mrs. H. W. Mason and Bobby, Mrs. Elmer Sterling and Donnie, Mrs. J. R. Brown and Judy, Mrs. Leo Eickhoff and Margaret Kathryn, Mrs. Wayne Richardson and Wayne Warren.

Mrs. Maurine Griffin and Leslie, Mrs. G. E. Merry and Sheila, Mrs. Redmond was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Etta Grother.

Miss Martha Jane Stephens, daughter of Mrs. James W. Stephens, of Beaman, and Mr. Eugene Holman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Holman, of Sedalia, were married at 6:30 o'clock Friday evening February 13, at the home of the Rev. Walter P. Arnold, pastor of the East Sedalia Baptist church. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Morris G. Madroin.

Mrs. Eugene Holman is a graduate of Smith-Cotton high school and of Central Business College, and is now employed in St. Louis with the war department.

Mrs. Holman is employed with the Howard Roberts stores in Sedalia.

Merry-Go-Round

• by Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—It is now possible to reveal some of the inside diplomatic discussions regarding the defense of Singapore.

They transpired during the visit of Winston Churchill to Washington after Pearl Harbor. While he was in Washington, Foreign Minister Anthony Eden was in Moscow; and the British and Russians had worked out a policy for concentrating on the Russian and Mediterranean fronts.

This policy, incidentally, was almost identical with that expressed in the speech of Secretary Knox, namely that Hitler was our chief enemy. The only trouble with Knox was that apparently he did not know that meanwhile the policy had been changed—or at least was supposed to have been changed.

Here's the inside story: Only a few days after Churchill arrived, the Australians got word that the far eastern front was to be sacrificed, and almost tore the British Empire apart.

Churchill was arguing that it was going to be impossible to defend Singapore and the Dutch East Indies; that the Pacific was a tremendous ocean; that the Japanese could rattle round in it for a long time; that it was much wiser to defeat the German army on the Russian front and in the Mediterranean area. He contended that once the German army was crushed it would be a simple matter to clean up on Japan.

Admiral King Objects

However, Churchill ran into trouble immediately from Admiral Ernest King, forthright new commander of the U. S. fleet. King objected vigorously, said that Dutch oil, rubber, tin would keep Japan fighting for years; warned that Japan could then put the squeeze on India, while Hitler squeezed the British Middle East from the Syrian-Turkish end.

King also referred in critical, almost scathing terms, to the Libyan campaign in North Africa; said that this was just child's play; that these barren desert wastes meant nothing even if conquered.

Blunt-spoken as he was, however, Admiral King was not half as tough as the Australians. Their minister in Washington, Richard Casey, told Churchill point-blank that Singapore would have to be defended. He even went to the extreme length of warning that Australian troops would be yanked out of the near east if the British government did not send reinforcements to Singapore.

Furthermore, the Australian prime minister even went to the extent of suggesting that if London was going to desert the Australian people by not defending Singapore, it would be perfectly possible for the Australian government to withdraw from the war and make a separate peace with Germany.

Faced with this double-barreled barrage from both the Australians and the U.S. Navy, the British and Russians yielded. More reinforcements for the far east were decided upon. By that time, however, it was late to send heavy reinforcements. And the inside fact is that modern fighting planes did not arrive in Singapore until after Churchill returned to London—or about one month before Japan's all-out attack on the island.

NOTE: This inside history of Singapore is going to contribute to far closer ties between the U. S. A. and Australia.

MacArthur For President

Rep. Lane Powers, Republican of New Jersey, launched a presidential boom for Gen. MacArthur on Capitol Hill the other day, although it must be said he chose a strange place to do it—a closed-door meeting of the House Appropriations committee.

The committee was considering the new $23-billion army appropriation, to provide thousands of additional tanks and other equipment for the war against the axis. One of the first topics of discussion hinged on how much of the huge war fund would go for needed supplies in the Philippines. This was Powers' cue.

"Thank you, gentlemen," he said with a bow. "While we're on this subject, I wish to announce that my candidate for the presidency in 1944 is that great soldier, famous American and outstanding Republican, General Douglas MacArthur."

Democratic committee members applauded as vociferously as the Republicans. Later, Powers was asked why he picked a closed-door meeting to sound the keynote for MacArthur. "That's part of the strategy," grinned the popular New Jerseyite. "Do you think I want to jinx the man by coming out for him publicly at this early date?"

NOTE: Among the nation's outstanding military heroes who have been elected president were: George Washington, Andrew Jackson, William Henry Harrison, Zachary Taylor, Ulysses S. Grant and Theodore Roosevelt. On the other hand, General McClellan failed in his race against Lincoln; General Leonard Wood failed after the World War; Admiral Dewey was talked about but made no real attempt after the Spanish-American War; and General Winfield Scott was defeated after the Mexican War of 1848.

Mail Bag

M. L. S. WASHINGTON—The word "antimacassar" is derived from Macassar in the Dutch East Indies, which used to ship a lot of hair oil to Britain and the United States. The hair oil soiled the backs of chairs, so tidy housewives invented the "antimacassar," a white doily to protect the furniture. . . . J. S. V., SEATTLE—It was "House Resolution 37" of the California State Legislature which politely asked the Emperor of Japan "not to take any action or do anything drastic until . . . the legislature may make up its collective mind." The resolution was introduced by liberal assemblymen in disgust at slowness in passing "appropriations to continue the State Guard." The legislature actually passed the resolution, apparently unaware of its content, and adjourned for the Christmas holidays leaving the State Guard up in the air. B. E. W., BALTIMORE, MD.—The women's auxiliary corps of the army has nothing to do with Civilian Defense. If created, it will invite enlistment of women between 21 and 45 to serve with the army, with rank, uniform, pay, full time service, and military discipline. At first, 12,200 women will be accepted.

They will be formed into companies, and one company will be attached to each large military encampment, where the members will serve as clerks, machine operators, telegraph operators, pharmacists, dieticians, hostesses, theater employees, stewardesses, etc.

Stone Blind

Young Rep. Clyde Ellis of Arkansas, whose crusading efforts for the New Deal's rural electrification program had much to do with bringing electricity to the Ozarks, is telling colleagues this story:

When an REA co-op was formed in a sparsely-settled section of the Ozarks, among the first to join was an aged couple whose farm home had been lighted for more than half a century by oil lamps and candles. The husband celebrated the debut of REA lighting by subscribing to a "city newspaper" to keep up with the war news.

Each night after supper he read aloud to his wife while she knitted. However, one night, having finished his farm chores early, the old man got a head start on his wife and had devoured most of the big news on page one by the time she was through the supper dishes. She complained about this, so he agreed to re-read the news to her.

The wife settled comfortably in a chair under the new electric light with her knitting basket. But the husband decided on a ruse, so as not to have to go through again what he had already read. He propped himself up in his chair with the newspaper before him, closed his eyes and began to recite the war news from memory.

Suddenly, due to a short circuit, the light went out.

But the old farmer didn't notice it because his eyes were shut and he kept right on "reading." His wife, after listening to him for a few minutes and seeing everything black around her, jumped up and cried, "Henry, call the doctor, quick. I've gone stone blind."

Property owners on Ingram avenue between Broadway and Tenth street have called the attention of the street commissioner to the condition of the street after rains. Last fall the wooden walks in the locality were condemned and removed but new ones were not substituted, and pedestrians have been forced to wade through slush and mud, they asserted.

The thermometer registered 10 degrees above zero early this morning.

"A BRAVE LOT, not afraid of death," one chronicler called the men with MacArthur. S. forces have retired to prepared shelters in the mountain forests, only to emerge, make a stand, then counter-attack and drive the wearying foe back. Anti-aircraft units have bagged many a Jap plane, asked for more; accurate artillery fire has blasted out enemy positions before the attackers could get moving; and plucky Americans and Filipinos still asked to go on the offensive after two months of pounding.

Small Islands In Dutch East Indies Bombed

Japanese Appear Preparing For Assault On Java

BATAVIA, N.E.I., Feb. 17.—(P)—The Dutch defenders' application of the "scorched earth" policy to oil fields and installations on Sumatra and Borneo in advance of the onrushing Japanese had cost about one billion guilders (about $540,000,000), informed sources estimated tonight.

They asserted that sufficient oil stores had been accumulated in Java to meet United Nations war requirements in this area for some time, but pointed out that at some future date the Indies will have to import oil for the first time to supplement the meager stocks produced on Java itself.

Refugees reaching here from Japanese-occupied Palembang, richest of Sumatra's oil producing areas, said the refineries there had been turned into a blazing inferno and that from miles away they still could hear the explosion of dynamite charges.

The Palembang oil sources alone produced more than 4,000,000 tons a year—making their destruction "the largest voluntary sacrifice in the history of the world," according to the Batavia Nieuwsblad.

BY D. WITT HANCOCK

BATAVIA, N.E.I., Feb. 17.—(P)—Japanese planes, possibly in a preliminary to the expected direct assault on Java, heart of the Dutch East Indies, today bombed and machine-gunned several of the small islands in the narrow Sunda strait which separates Java from Sumatra.

The Dutch communique, issued through the Aneta news agency, said several persons were killed and others wounded, though little material damage was done.

Dutch bombers were credited with a direct hit on a Japanese transport and a probable hit on a second in an attack presumably staged off the Sumatra coast.

In a raid on a Japanese-held airfield at Palembang, south Sumatra oil center which the Dutch destroyed before the Japanese occupation, Dutch bombers also shot down two Japanese fighter planes, the communique said.

The hour of decision for the Netherlands East Indies was fast approaching with the Japanese evidently preparing for the climax thrust against the citadel island of Java without even waiting to complete their investment of Sumatra.

There was no disposition among the Dutch to minimize the odds against them but they faced their test with burning resolution to meet the enemy and beat him.

"Miracles Do Happen"

"It is true that Japan's power is enormous," declared H. V. Quispel, a Netherlands Indies naval spokesman, "and perhaps it is equally true that only a miracle can save the Netherlands Indies, but miracles do sometimes happen.

"Even if we in the Netherlands Indies, like the men and women of London, Leningrad and Moscow, are forced back to the last defense lines, we shall win."

Java, most important of the Dutch islands, the site of the naval base of Soerabaja and the seat of the United Nations' southwest Pacific command, now is deprived of the buffer strength of Singapore and is exposed to direct assault from three sources.

These were from Sumatra, to the west, across the 20-mile wide Strait of Sunda; and from the islands of Borneo and Celebes, across the Java sea to the north.

With Palembang, producer of half the petroleum output of the Indies, in enemy hands the only consolation to the Dutch was that they had applied the torch to its fields and machinery in a sacrificial $100,000,000 fire before the Japanese could take it.

One reason for Japan's haste in launching the drive on Sumatra, first by parachutists and then by boatloads of invaders, even before the conquest of Singapore had been completed, was believed to be an urgent—and unfulfilled—need for oil.

Palembang followed Balikpapan and Tarakan in flames and the only resources of any consequence remaining are wells of relatively poor quality on this island.

"Enemy At Gates"

BATAVIA, N.E.I., Feb. 17.—(P)—Java's 40,000,000 people were warned in a government broadcast tonight that, with the Japanese already occupying Palembang in south Sumatra, "the enemy is at the gates of Java and soon will storm these gates."

Java is separated from south Sumatra only by the 20-mile-wide Sunda strait.

Charles O. Van Der Plas, member of the Netherlands Indies Council, emphasized that the Japanese are driving ever closer to this heart of the rich archipelago, and then added:

"The population is now called on to meet its test. Much depends on our courage and tenacity."

Kill Women And Children In Air Attack

Twenty-three Die As Bombs Fall On Refugee Camp

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(P)—Increasing enemy air activity over General Douglas MacArthur's lines in Bataan and heavy artillery bombardments were reported today by the war department in a communique which said that 23 women and children were killed and 22 others wounded in a bombing attack on Cabacben on the southeast tip of Bataan peninsula.

The text of the communique, Number 110 of the war, based on reports received here up to 9:30 a. m. Eastern War Time:

1. Philippine theater:
"Heavy enemy artillery fire from the Cavite shore bombarded our harbor fortifications with increasing intensity during most of the day. Damage to our installations and casualties were no great.

"In Bataan the enemy is bringing up artillery reinforcements and there is increased artillery fire all along the front. Enemy air activity is increasing.

"For several days enemy airplanes have been dropping poorly printed leaflets on refugee camps behind our lines. These pamphlets, in English, Spanish and Tagalog, professed great friendship for the Filipinos and exhorted them to cooperate with the invaders and join the greater Asia co-prosperity sphere.

"Yesterday bombs were substituted for pamphlets. These potent messages of death fell on the refugee camp at the defenseless village of Cabacben. Eighteen women and five children were killed in this attack, and thirteen women and nine children were wounded.

"2. There is nothing to report from other areas."

Retread Limit Starts Thursday

The rationing of truck tire retreads will start in Pettis county Thursday, and the State Defense Council announced last night that the county's allotment of materials for truck tire retreading and recapping had been narrowed down to 22 for the remainder of this month.

The retread rationing for trucks will begin throughout Missouri Thursday with a state quota of 2,315 tires for the rest of February. James A. Potter, state rationing administrator, said no materials will be allotted for retreading or recapping passenger car tires at least until the end of the month.

Only truckers engaged in essential work will be permitted to get retreads or recaps, with the rationing controlled by the local county board which now allots new tires and tubes here.

Asks Benefits To Ones Displaced

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(P)—Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York, saying "Our entire industry will have to be transformed into war production," appealed to a congressional committee today to approve a $300,000,000 plan of benefits to displaced workers.

"If it was 1,000 or 100,000 workers, they could be absorbed, but the number is so great that it creates a national problem, not a state problem," the mayor told the House Ways and Means committee.

Administration leaders were reported to have lost hope of bringing the legislation to a vote.

Repeating to many state governors who have insisted the problems should be handled by the states, rather than the federal government, the mayor said:

"If this bill is not passed, the states now appearing before you will come right back asking for federal aid."

He said it is not a question of states' rights "but one of national security."

President Roosevelt recommended the legislation a month ago and only yesterday told his congressional leaders that favorable action was imperative because the situation in some areas was growing acute.

'DEFINITELY LAST MESSAGE'

"I am leaving."
That message, at the end of a fragmentary but poignant dispatch telling of fearful air raids on Singapore during its last stand against the Japanese, was the last word received by the Associated Press from its staff reporter in Singapore, G. Yates McDaniel.

McDaniel was the last American reporter to remain in the city.

Instead of placing the routine timeslug at the beginning of his message, McDaniel marked it "definitely last."

Born in China, McDaniel has spent much of his life in the Orient. This is the fourth time he has seen a great city fall to the Japanese. He was in Tientsin, Nanking and Hankow when they fell.

Kings Row

by Henry Bellamann

NEA Service Inc

THE STORY: Schoolmates in small town Kings Row are orphaned Parris Mitchell, 12, who adores his French grandmother, Madame von Elin; playmate Renee, daughter of von Elin estate owner; "all boy" Drake McHugh; tomboy Henny Monaghan; beautiful Cassandra Tower, whose reclusive father is town mystic; Louise Gordon, daughter of leading physician, Dr. Tower, furious at social snub from Mrs. Gordon, takes classic out of school. Other characters: lawyer Skellington, editor Miles Jackson, half-wit Benny Singer, brunt of school-boy teasing. Parris avows childish love for pretty Renee.

FIRST LOVE—AND TRAGEDY

CHAPTER VI

A FEW days later when they were coming home from school they overtook Willy Macintosh. He looked very solemn.

"My pa is awful sick," he blurted the words, and tears stood in his brown eyes.

"What's the matter with him?" asked Renee.

"I don't know. Terrible bad though. He's going to have an operation today."

They walked slowly, keeping step with Willy, who delayed as much as possible. When they came to the crossroads where the big white Macintosh house stood in a grove of trees they saw a buggy standing at the gate.

"That's Dr. Gordon's buggy," Willy said as if to prove his story. "I guess he's performin' the operation."

"Well, Willy, I hope your papa'll—"

Renee's speech was cut short by a dreadful sound. A long-drawn cry came from open windows. It was more like the howl of a dog. It mounted and mounted as though it would never stop, then broke into several short, quick sobs and died in a long moan. Renee turned pale and caught Parris by the arm.

"Good gracious, Willy," Renee spoke in a loud whisper, "didn't Dr. Gordon give your father chloroform?"

"I—I heard Mama say he couldn't take chloroform because he's got brain disease."

The terrible yells began again. Willy threw his books into the ditch beside the road. His face was crimson, and he was crying aloud. Then he began to run toward the house. "He's got to quit that," he sobbed. "He's got to quit that. I'll—I'll kill that old dumfellow doctor!"

The next day at school Parris overheard Miss Colt say to Miss Venable that Mr. Macintosh had died from shock. He wondered just what that meant.

One thing, however, he was certain of. He was afraid of Dr. Henry Gordon.

PARRIS and Renee would have fallen quickly into their accustomed summer pastime had it not been for the sudden, inexplicable strictness of Sven, her father. "There is danger in mixing classes," he told Gudrun. "More now that both of them are growing up."

The next week he forbade Renee to roam the place with Parris as she used to do, thrashing her soundly in the storm of tears and refusals to obey him that followed. Of all this she told Parris nothing until, one stolen afternoon, they went up through the spruce plantings and down the other side to the pond—their "secret lake," as they always called it.

"Parris," she said softly. "He knelt beside her. 'What's the matter, Renee?'"

She told him, her hair, silver in the green shadows, falling over her face to hide the tears. "So you see, I can't be your sweetheart anymore," she whimpered.

"Oh, no, Renee!" he cried, taking her awkwardly in his arms, kissing her cheeks, stroking her head, rocking her gently.

"Papa said that if I—look!" She leapt to her feet and cowered against the tree.

"Parris, there was somebody in those bushes—somebody watching us. Come on, Renee, let's go."

"No," she thought a minute. "You stay here, and I'll go first. You wait a good while."

Later he went slowly down the same way she had gone.

When he came in sight of the little cottage he was surprised. The doors were shut and the shades were drawn. He was about to pass when he heard voices. It was Sven—Gudrun, too. Without thinking he ran up the walk to the door. He could hear Sven cursing, and Gudrun saying something very loud.

There was a thud on the door as though someone had been thrown against it. Then he heard the unmistakable swish of a heavy leather strap. He heard it strike flesh and heard Renee's piercing scream. He hurried himself against the door and shouted.

"Sven! Sven Gyllinson—Sven—Sven—"

But Sven did not hear. Sven was cursing louder than ever. The sharp slap of the strap came faster and faster. Renee's screams ran together in a continued stream of sound. Still the murderous blows went on and on. The screams changed. They were suddenly hoarse—like the cries of an animal.

Parris felt himself turn icy cold.

He knew he was going to be sick. He threw out his hands as he saw the ground slanting sharply toward his face.

It was almost dark when he opened his eyes. He remembered at once where he was and what had happened. He crawled a few paces and listened. The house was silent. Had they killed her? His breath shook out of him in gasps. He felt terribly ill. Tomorrow—he'd tell his grandmother about Sven. They'd take Renee away from him. Tomorrow—he couldn't do anything now. Tomorrow—Sven—the dirty, horrible, monstrous, terrible dog—tomorrow! He could not keep to the path.

He stumbled up the steps of the terrace. He heard Anna's startled exclamation as he stepped into the blinding lamplight, and then his grandmother saying, "Nom de Dieu! Anna, vite, de l'eau."

Dr. Gordon came, but Parris could not see him clearly. He heard questions, and tried to answer. Faces without bodies attached to them seemed to float over the bed. They came close, and enormous eyes looked at him. He tried to get away but could not. He tried hard to think. He said Renee—Renee—Renee, over and over. What was happening to her? Maybe she was still lying on the floor behind that locked door.

When he awoke it was dark outside. There was a shaded light in the corner, and someone was in the big rocking chair.

In a moment his grandmother leaned over him. "Parris," she said very softly.

"Yes," he tried to move.

"S-sh! Not now, tomorrow you can talk, perhaps."

He waked and slept and waked again but never for very long. Then one morning the objects in the room were steadier and clearer, but the inside of his head was heavy as lead.

He lay half awake and tried once more to think. A wagon rattled along the drive below the terrace. He heard a whip crack. A quick little cry escaped his lips. His grandmother was instantly beside the bed. "Parris, what is it?"

"Where's Renee?"

Madame laid one of her wrinkled little hands on his. "Renee has gone away, Parris."

"Gone? Gone away? Where?"

"Well, I don't know, dear. Her father moved away somewhere." All of the breath went out of him.

Bolivia's Tin Is Vital To Defense of Americas

BOLIVIA, a nation twice as large as Texas and supporting only 55 per cent as many people, is becoming increasingly important in the defense of the U. S. and all the Americas.

The only South American nation without direct access to the sea, Bolivia produces one of the strategic metals highest on the United States' want list—tin. Before the current war Bolivia was the third ranking tin-producing country of the world, outdistanced only by British Malaya and the Dutch East Indies.

Since the Japanese invasion of both those areas has closed tin mines, the New World looks to Bolivia for the metal so necessary in bronze, babbitt, and food containers.

The stamp above, issued in 1941.

bears a design of a monument erected to Pedro Domingo Murillo, Bolivian patriot who led the nation's fight for freedom against Spain.

In Bolivia the "tin standard" substitutes for the gold standard. It constitutes from two-thirds to nine-tenths of the country's exports, and export duties in this land of impoverished agriculture and limited industry are the chief sources of government income.

The Quebec provincial government built 1490 bridges between 1908 and 1939.

Standard time was adopted in the United States in 1883.

2. What is the largest city in Kentucky? The state capital?
3. Identify the famous appointments of Kentucky governors?
4. What city in Kentucky has the same name as a famous town of the Revolution in Massachusetts?

5. What small Kentucky college crashed the athletic hall of fame by defeating Harvard at football and what was the team's nickname?

Wheat Futures Up Almost A Cent
CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Wheat futures shot up as much as a cent a bushel today in the final minutes of trading, largely on reports of a new appropriation bill calling for the expenditure of more than five billion dollars for land-lease purposes.

While Secretary of Agriculture Wickard said most of the $1,500,000,000 earmarked for food would be used for meat and dairy products, there was a feeling in trade circles that considerable quantities of feed would be needed to produce meat and other products and that wheat and rye particularly would be in demand.

Corn also forged ahead. Soybeans, however, held at levels generally under yesterday's close.

The extreme gains were reduced minor fractions at the close.

Wheat finished 1/4 to 1/2 cent higher than Monday's close. May $1.31; corn 1/4 to 1/2 cent up, May $8.14 to $8.14; July 90 1/4; oats 1/4 to 1/2 cent higher, rye 1/4 to 1/2 cent up and lard unchanged to 5 cents a hundredweight higher. Soybeans, however, closed 1/2 to 1 1/4 cents lower.

To Continue Junior Legion Baseball Club

Post Is Sponsoring George Washington Dance February 23

The continuation of a Junior Legion baseball club in Sedalia was approved last night by Pettis County Post No. 16 of the American Legion at its regular session, and a committee composed of Dick Woods, Roy Wills and Walter Pinkpank was chosen to take charge of the club.

The Legion team has proved to be one of the best in the state during the seasons of its organization. The members of the baseball club do not have to be the sons of Legionnaires. The players are chosen solely on their baseball playing ability.

Another committee composed of Tony Spurlock, Allen Duff and Vernon Glenn was named to take charge of sending six county youth to the annual Boys State meeting June 13-20 at Fulton, Mo. Young students are chosen to attend Boys State each year, their eligibility being based on the merit of their scholastic work.

Legion members reported that a large number of tickets to the George Washington dance, which will be held at Convention hall, Liberty Park, Monday night, February 23, had been sold. All profits of the dance will be turned over to the local chapter of the American Red Cross. The local musicians union has offered the services of several of its members to play for the dance free of charge.

Sound equipment will be installed in the hall in order that those attending the dance may listen to a speech by President Roosevelt.

Hogan Edged Out By Harbert

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 17.—(P)—Ben Hogan may be golf's leading money winner to the rest of the country, but he's just a perpetual runner-up in his native Texas.

He has not won a tournament there yet.

He dropped an 18-hole playoff to Melvin (Chico) Harbert of Battle Creek, Mich., by four strokes—72 and 76—yesterday and along with it the Texas Open title that has just slipped away from him at the last minute for three consecutive years now.

At least he came closer than usual this year. The gallery conceded him the title Sunday for about the length of time it took Harbert to play, his last seven holes.

Harbert came in with five birdies on that last seven to tie Hogan's 272 for the 72 holes of regular play, and force him into the runoff—his second in three years.

Two years ago Byron Nelson tied him in the regular play and then won the playoff. Last year Lawson Little edged him out.

Harbert collected $1,000 for his victory and Hogan took $750 for second place.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Wide World Sports Columnist
NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—(Wide World)—That idea of putting basketball officials up by the backboards may not solve the problem of getting them off the court, but a lot of coaches seem to think it's worth a try. . . . In recent experiments at Denver and Chattanooga, Tenn., opinions of the referees and players were divided. It is to be tried again in Detroit's Olympic arena next Saturday for the Alma-Michigan Normal game but the refs will be on the floor for the Detroit-Wayne contest on the same card. . . . A. A. U. officials hope to have Cornelius Warmadam come back east for the National Indoor track championship Feb. 28.

Photo Finish

When the University of California crew went out for its first spring workout recently. A boatload of photographers trailed along. . . . The shutter snappers had just reached an agreement on the light, background, angles, etc. for the best shot and were taking aim when a voice hailed them from a nearby pier: "Don't point those cameras this way or I'll put a bullet in you." . . . The photo-togs looked again and went back to the boat house, where they were sure no military secrets were in the background.

Service Dept.

It may be a bit late to cook up a basketball tournament for the crack service teams, but there is still time and plenty of material for a whole of a tourney to decide the baseball team in the army, navy and marine establishments. . . . Freddie Hutchinson has just been assigned to the Norfolk (Va.) station, where Bobby Feller and Sam Chapman are located along with Claude Corbitt, who was due for a trial with the Dodgers, and Ernest (Hooks) Deauvaur, Coast league outfielder. . . . Jefferson Barracks (Mo) will campaign with Johnny Storm as player-manager and major leaguers George Archie and Joe Gallagher under him. . . . Lots of other camps also should have crack teams. . . . One reason for all the patriotism displayed on Jacobs Beach these days is that Sgt. Dan Morgan, Jr., Dumb Dan's boy is somewhere on active service and Sam Diamond, son of the Honest Brakeman, is an acting corporal at Camp McClellan, Ala. . . . Eight of the starting players on the Texas Wesleyan football team and the College's cheer leader have signed up with the army fliers at Kelly Field, Texas.

Softies, Eh?

The next time someone tells you that modern boys are getting soft refer them to basketballers Joe Barrett of Detroit U. and Nick Del Ninno of Tufts. . . . Joe finally quit the court the other day when he decided he couldn't do justice to his studies while he continued to play basketball and work on the midnight shift in a bomber plant. . . . Nick lives at home and does some early morning work for his father, delivering papers, works on a NYA job, practices basketball and winds up the day as a sports reporter for the Boston Traveler and Herald. . . . He manages to find time for classes, too.

Dodgers Support The War Effort

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Feb. 17.—(P)—Going far beyond all other ball clubs to support the nation's war effort, the Brooklyn Dodgers announced today they would donate their entire receipts from one home game, one road game and many exhibitions to service funds in 1942 and would admit at least 150,000 uniformed men this season free.

L. S. (Larry) MacPhail, president of the Dodgers and the man chiefly responsible for the major leagues arranging two all-star charity games this year and agreeing to accept 10 per cent of all salaries in defense bonds, said he had tried to get all clubs to collaborate in the broader program.

that will be in effect at Brooklyn but had failed.

MacPhail said the same plan would be followed as closely as possible by all 10 of Brooklyn's farm clubs in as many different minor leagues.

Presses Roll On Ration Books

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—(P)—Presses of the government printing office and print shops throughout the country rolled today with GPO's biggest printing order—the preparation of 700 million forms, cards and booklets for the rationing of sugar, to be in the hands of local rationing agencies by March 7.

Within a "reasonable time" after that date, possibly a week or two, the registration of every adult and child will take place at public school houses, Office of Price Administration sources said. Each will get a copy of a "war ration book one," containing stamps for the purchase of sugar for the following 28 weeks.

Twenty-three private printing firms from coast to coast have been awarded contracts to assist the GPO in turning out the job. The printing orders for books (200,000,000 of them), applications and instructions exceed by a wide margin the country's 132 million population, but the excess was ordered to allow for books lost or destroyed, to take care of births in the next six months, and to guarantee that every neighborhood has a safe margin to cover possible recent population growths.

Dizzy Plans No Comeback

Says Cards Are Set For Pennant If Too Many Aren't Drafted

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 17.—(P)—Dizzy Dean said he had given up any comeback notions. The ex-National league pitcher said he did not come to Hot Springs to have his pitching arm worked on.

"I'm just here to visit some of my old stomping ground again," Dean said. "Nobody is going to work on my arm. I've given up any comeback notions."

And then he added: "If I did happen to pitch again it would be for the Chicago Cubs. I have a standing offer to come back there any time."

Dean said he intended to go back to his sports announcing job in St. Louis in April.

The St. Louis Cardinals, he said, are "a cinch" for the next National league pennant "if the draft doesn't tear 'em up too much." Of the Brooklyn Dodgers he opined, "I don't even think they have a good ball club." He gives the Giants little chance in 1942, and doesn't profess to know about Cincinnati.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, Dean said, are the "real dark horse."
